SCRANTON, Pa.–August 17, 2006–Diversified Information Technologies, Inc. today announced the completion of its acquisition of United Data Management (UDM) Services, Inc., a nationwide provider of online backup and disaster recovery services serving small businesses up to enterprises.

The acquisition of UDM adds additional business continuity and disaster recovery services to Diversified's comprehensive range of information management offerings, which include front-end mailroom services, forms processing, document imaging, data capture and indexing, and records management.

"We are pleased to be able to provide our customers with complete cradle-to-grave document and information management capabilities," Janice Thyren, senior executive vice president and chief operating officer for Diversified, emphasized, "particularly the ability to ensure the continuous availability of their data through vaulting, distributed operations and alternate business-continuity sites. The acquisition of UDM allows us to expand on these services and take advantage of the extensive knowledge and experience of UDM."

The new data services will be branded as Diversified Availability Solutions or DAS. Offerings will include data vaulting, server mirroring, managed hosting, secondary office locations and consulting services. Diversified is currently integrating UDM operations and account management processes into the company's downtown Scranton headquarters to assure a smooth transition for UDM customers and partners.

Work is also progressing on Diversified's new secure, state-of-the-art business continuity and data vaulting center, located in Gordonsville, Va.; which will be the operations hub and secondary site for many of the new data protection services offered via the acquisition.
